What about increasing child support when the noncustodial parent doesn't see his son every other weekend like he is suppose to, that is written in our divorce degree. He has NOT taken his son for the last year or more. I think I should get more money since he is not feeding etc. on his weekend. It is expensive to have a teenager plus I always have to make arrangements if I go away on a weekend, even if it is his weekend.

I have been to the FOC to try and get him to see him, but got nowhere. Maybe if it he was paying extra money that might give him an incentive to see his son. The system once more worked on his side and it took me about 9 months to even get into the FOC to have a mediation. It is very discouraging.
